या देवी सर्वभूतेषु शक्ति-रूपेण संस्थिता। नमस्तस्यै नमस्तस्यै नमस्तस्यै नमो नमः ॥

Ya Devi Sarva Bhuteshu Shakti Rupena Samsthita, Namastasyai Namastasyai Namastasyai Namoh Namah.

To the Divine Goddess who resides in all beings in the form of Power / Energy,

Salutations to Her again and again.

We have just celebrated Sharad Navratri, dedicated to the worship of the goddess Durga. The mother Goddess represents the supreme feminine energy, or Shakti. Shakti means not only the divine feminine energy that nurtures, protects, and sustains life, but also the dynamic, creative, and life-giving cosmic energy that exists within all beings and animates existence. By worshipping the Mother Goddess, we are saluting that universal energy that guides us in every aspect of life.

*One of the several aspects of Shakti is resilience.
Though Shakti and resilience are often considered opposites, resilience is actually the Shakti, or the power to endure, transform, and thrive in the face of challenges. Resilience, or the ability to grow from adversity, is the manifestation of Shakti, a force that enables individuals to adapt, heal, and get back on their feet after a setback.*

Resilience is especially significant in the lives of women, who balance multiple roles, while overcoming numerous personal, societal, and emotional challenges in the process. Women demonstrate remarkable resilience in every aspect of their lives, from nurturing children and supporting their families to building and strengthening communities.

In today’s world, resilience has become highly important for women as they face a unique set of challenges, such as gender discrimination, social inequality, limited access to opportunities, etc. In workplaces, women face challenges like stereotyping, unequal pay, limited career advancement, discrimination, harassment, etc. In such a scenario, women need to build their resilience by developing mindfulness, creating support networks, acquiring new skills, adapting to change, setting clear boundaries, and forming networks to effect change. Thus, resilience is no longer about individual endurance; it is about transforming adversity into an opportunity. ♦

Women 5.0: Power, Progress & Possibilities – Official Brochure Launch

The Centre for Women's Development at the ICFAI Foundation for Higher Education (IFHE), Hyderabad, is proud to launch the conference brochure for the International Conference on Women 5.0: Power, Progress, & Possibilities, in collaboration with the Centre for Women's Studies (CWS), University of Hyderabad.

As a Centre of Excellence committed to advancing the cause of gender equity, leadership, and empowerment, CWD has continually created spaces for dialogue, research, and action on critical issues impacting women across societal strata. In line with its vision to foster inclusive growth and innovation, this conference serves as a timely response to the emerging challenges and opportunities facing women in an era defined by Industry 5.0. The theme, Women 5.0: Power, Progress & Possibilities, captures the evolution of womanhood—from traditional roles to the forefront of innovation, leadership, and systemic change. It reflects the CWD's mission to go beyond advocacy and actively contribute to reshaping narratives, influencing policies, and building capacities that empower women to thrive in a rapidly changing world. Through interdisciplinary dialogues, academic deliberations, and collaborative initiatives, the conference aims to amplify women's voices, showcase transformative research, and build a collective roadmap toward a more gender-just and inclusive future.

We invite scholars, practitioners, policymakers, and change-makers to join us in this vital endeavor to explore, engage, and elevate the power and potential of Women 5.0. ♦
