Prof.Sanjay Fuloria

Professor and Director, Center for Distance and Online Education, IFHE, Hyderabad

Professor Sanjay Fuloria is an accomplished academic and industry professional with expertise spanning Operations Management, Information Technology, and analytics-driven innovation. Currently based in Hyderabad, he serves as a Professor and Director at the Centre for Distance and Online Education at a Deemed-to-be University. Prior to his academic career, he amassed over 13 years of industry experience, including 4.5 years at HCL Infosystems as a Sales Manager, where he led enterprise technology solutions and strategic client engagements. He later spent 9 years at Cognizant Technology Solutions as General Manager, Cognizant Research Center, managing high-impact research and analytics-driven projects across global domains. His dual experience in industry and academia enables him to design forward-looking curricula and mentor students in analytics, data science, and digital strategy. Professor Fuloria is a strong advocate for online and flexible learning models, and plays a pivotal role in advancing institutional excellence and digital transformation in higher education.

Area of interest/expertise - Technology, Generative AI, Policy, New Education Paradigms