IFHE also has statistical/simulation software tools like Prowess, SPSS, SAS and Rational Rose which students and faculty use for their research and analysis work.

IFHE has academic alliances with several computer software companies like Microsoft Corporation, IBM, SAS Institute, SAP, Micro World and Adobe.

n) Energy:

Generator: The University has full power supply from the public utility services as well as two generators with complete back-up facility of more than 2000 KVA.

Usage of Solar Energy: Solar panels, installed at various places within the campus, are used to power solar water heaters. The entire hot water requirement in the hostels and mess is met through these heaters.

Conservation of Power: The Academic blocks and libraries are planned architecturally to get natural light during the daytime and are well illuminated. This has ensured that there is no wastage of power.

o) Water Supply:

The University has water supply from the Hyderabad Metro water supply department as well as a back-up of underground water resource through 10 bore wells and a sump to store 4,00,000 liters of water to be used at any time on the campus.

The bore wells are in working condition discharging sufficient water.

Reverse Osmosis (RO) Water Treatment: The underground water is treated in the RO plant to make it potable for drinking.

Sewerage Treatment Plant (STP): The University has a Sewerage Treatment Plant which has been upgraded to treat 1000 KLD of waste water. The sewerage is treated and water is used for watering the plants on the campus.

They co-exist in a happy and symbiotic relationship. Infrastructure and buildings account for 20%; roads and green pathways constitute 5% and another 5% is for grounds and facilities (for sports and recreation).

7. Learning Resources

The University has a central library and two departmental libraries attached to the Faculty of Science & Technology and the Faculty of Law. The spacious central library, which is spread over three floors, is named as 'Sri N J Yasaswy Memorial Library'. It has a carpet area of 45000 sq.ft and is centrally air conditioned. The library has a seating capacity of 700.

The library has a diverse collection of books, CD/DVDs, reports, and national/international periodicals related to all functional areas of management, economics, science & technology and law. All the library activities are computerized with the help of Libsuite, the integrated library management software. The library documents are classified according to the Dewey decimal classification system. An online catalogue is maintained. This helps the students, faculty and staff to trace books easily. All the documents are bar-coded and bar-coded identity cards are issued to the users (students, faculty & staff) for borrowing the documents.

The library also subscribes to several online databases such as Ebsco, Emerald, Science Direct, and Proquest etc., to enable the users to access these databases as well as the library catalogue (WebOPAC) through the campus intranet. Photocopying facilities are also available within the library premises.

Research related software like SPSS & SAS are made available to the scholars and faculty. Research related books, monographs, and dissertations / theses are housed in the reference section. The latest books and revised editions in the related fields are also procured every month.

The library staff is professionally qualified and experienced and maintain the library efficiently, catering to the needs of the users.

Upgradation of Infrastructure

The University uses both formal and informal methods to get to know the kind of infrastructural facilities that it needs to add or upgrade. Some of the facilities are directly managed by the faculty and hence the campus head comes to know about the facility requirements. Students are also involved in managing facilities like the library, computer centers and cafeteria. Hence, they too form an important source of feedback.

Visits by the faculty/center head to other educational institutions are encouraged. These visits provide insights about the facilities and equipment that these institutions use. The Director also encourages manufacturers and dealers of equipment to demonstrate their products.

Monitoring Mechanism

The University also has a formal mechanism to get feedback from the faculty, staff and students on the infrastructure and other facilities. Before the students graduate, detailed feedback is taken from all of them. This feedback is on computer facilities, library, cafeteria, timings, etc. The head of academics also takes formal feedback from the faculty at the end of each semester about the facilities, equipment and hardware & software requirements.

New Technology Infrastructure

The University has 24x7 Wi-Fi connectivity on the campus. Students have the option of using the internet anywhere on the campus. The IT lab is equipped with the latest software and hardware. The institute has 750 MBPS internet bandwidth for the use of students and faculty members. The internet facility has been provided to all the students for their academic and research work. Computers are provided to all the teaching staff in their rooms. Research related software such as SPSS, SAS, IBM Rational Rose, etc., is available.

Automation Process

The current status of the automation initiative at the University is as follows:

- i. Admissions process: Students have the facility to fill up the application online. Their identity cards for taking the written examination are also sent online. After the examination, their results are declared online and further communication is sent to them online.
- ii. Students' Feedback on Faculty: The students have the facility to give their feedback on their respective faculty members online at the end of every semester.

- iii. Summer Internship Program (SIP): The faculty members have the facility to evaluate the students at various intervals during the SIP and can enter the marks for the students online.
- iv. Hosting Suggested Answers on the Website: The question papers along with the suggested answers are uploaded on the site immediately after the examination is over. If a student has any doubts he/she can immediately get them cleared by the faculty member concerned.
- v. Alumni Activities: Activities like placement support, career enhancement support, alumni meetings, exchange of information, etc., are web enabled to ensure wider reach and faster processing.
- vi. Other activities online: The student circulars, office circulars, etc., are uploaded for student and faculty viewing.
- vii. Biometric System: Biometric system of attendance recording for faculty and staff has been implemented.
- viii. Online examinations: We have recently introduced the facility of online exams for the internal component of evaluation.

Networking

Till recently, faculty members, the students and staff were using the network only for sharing resources like software and printers. In the last few months, the Academic Office, which keeps all the records, has created an Intranet to provide detailed and latest information to the students and the faculty. The Intranet provides information on schedules of classes, examinations and events, syllabuses of courses, information about students and faculty members, etc. It is being used by the students to communicate with each other, run opinion polls, post articles and news about the campus, and create a market to buy and sell items. Some of the salient features of the Intranet are as follows:

- Using the Intranet, students can choose elective courses online. If a course is not offered because only a few students were interested in it, the software does not allow students to choose that course. Similarly, the software does not allow students to choose courses for which they are not eligible.
- IFHE uses the Student Information Management System (SIS) to enhance the learning experience of students using the latest educational technology. All academic activities including evaluation are done using this facility, which is supported by Wi-Fi and advanced IT labs.

- The Intranet has a link to the library database. The students and faculty can check the availability of books in the library.
- The University has various academic, cultural and social clubs. Each club has its own website. The clubs use the websites to announce the activities, events and competitions organized by them; to get nominations for competitions; and to announce the results of the competitions. After an event is over, students upload photographs of the event and put up a report about the event.

8. Faculties and Programs

8.1 Faculty of Management – IBS Hyderabad

IFHE, Hyderabad, offers high-quality programs in Management, Science & Technology and Law. The programs offered by IBS Hyderabad are BBA, MBA, Executive MBA (Part-Time), PhD (Full-Time & Part-Time) and Open & Distance Learning.

The BBA Program

The University launched the BBA program in the year 2010. In the seventh batch, i.e. the Class of 2017-20, there are 651 students.

BBA Enrollment
Class	Boys	Girls	Total
Class of 2018 (2015-18)	181	107	288
Class of 2019 (2016-19)	296	114	410
Class of 2020 (2017-20)	448	203	651

The details of the program are available on www.ibshyderabad.org.

The MBA Program

The MBA Program equips the students with the skills, knowledge and strategic perspectives essential for leadership of business around the world. IBS Hyderabad has adopted the case-based learning method.

Management case studies form an integral part of the curriculum in leading B-Schools globally. Case studies describe the situation faced by practicing managers in a narrative form and also provide the necessary supporting information to involve students in the decision-making process. These case studies encourage students to think of the possible ways of handling various issues and help them learn the complexities of decision-making in business. The case studies also make them aware of the challenges that managers face every day at work. Almost all the courses in IBS Hyderabad are designed keeping in mind the advantages of case-based teaching. Each topic in a particular course is mapped with business cases. More than 300 different cases are studied, analyzed, and discussed by the students.

Summer Internship Program (SIP)

The Summer Internship Program (SIP) forms an important component of the MBA Program. It is an attempt to bridge the gap in the students' perception between academics and the corporate world. Under this program, students undertake a 12-week internship at any organization during the intervening period between close of Semester II and commencement of Semester III. It requires students to undergo the rigors of a professional environment, both in form and substance. SIP exposes the students to technical skills and helps them to acquire social skills by drawing them into contact with real professionals. The internship is a simulation of the real work environment. Students are guided by a faculty member from the IBS Hyderabad and by a company executive under whom the students undergo internship. Both will assess the performance of the student and grade the students. The students underwent internship program in about 428 companies spread across 30 Sectors.

18.2 Student Activities – Faculty of Management

Co-curricular and extra-curricular activities are very much part of the day to day life at IFHE campus. With a large batch on the campus, the student community saw many activities during this year. In spite of their hectic academic schedule, students of the Faculty of Management are active outside the classrooms. Most of these activities are steered by the students under the guidance of a faculty member. Events across all areas of management as well as those related to sports, socio-cultural events and the arts are organized throughout the year.

At IBS Hyderabad, there are clubs / cells / committees in almost every functional area of management. Students with a focus on marketing and strategy have two clubs that may interest them. While ADMire is a club for students interested in advertising and branding, Maverick is more focused on overall marketing, selling and strategizing. Both Maverick and ADMire have serviced clients outside the campus this year, and have invited many guests from corporate world for guest lectures. This is proof of what our students are capable of.

Students who are interested in the Finance domain also have a choice of clubs to be part of. Money Matters is a club with its focus on money and banking, while FinStreet is a club focused on the financial markets. Vriddhi Research, a division of FinStreet, is a completely student-run cell whose focus is entirely on learning stock market operations and trading. EcoBizz is a club which focuses on public policy, the economy and the business environment.

Students who are interested in HR have a club called Convergence, while Kaizen is a club which caters to the interests of the students in the Operations area and this year also they conducted "Sankriya - a National level Operations Fest". Apart from that they give in-depth training to students interested in SAP, SPSS, SAS, Microsoft Excel and other softwares.

Analytics club of IBS, focuses on the upcoming trend of analytics in the industry and constantly strives to update the students about the same. Corporate tie-ups with companies' like Genpact, gives a boost to the learning.

There are several clubs whose activities go beyond the functional areas of business. Speak-Up is a club that organizes debates and public speaking competitions and focuses exclusively on personality development and soft skills. Aaina is a club which encourages students to reflect on women empowerment issues while using their talents in creative writing and art. Gray Matters is the official Quiz club of IBS Hyderabad. Members of Gray Matters compete and participate in general and business quiz competitions inside and outside the campus. Xpressionz is the name of the official theater society of IBS Hyderabad. Nazaria is the popular photography club of the institution. Apart from conducting photography workshops, they also participate and win inter B-school competitions. They actively give support to most of the events organized at the campus and have extended their services this year to organizations outside the University. Infinity Studios is a student club with a focus on movie appreciation and making. It not only presents critically acclaimed movies on a weekly basis but also conducts film festivals and other programs which are based on movie themes. Infinity's film making competition has now become a popular feature of the college's annual calendar.

Samavesh, the official cultural club of IBS Hyderabad, is one of the most active student bodies. It takes the lead in celebrating all festivals and national days and it truly celebrates the multi-cultural spirit of the campus. Samavesh indeed plays a big role in making students from all parts of the country feel at home. It has a tie-up with the Society for Promotion of Indian Classical Music and Culture among Youth (SPIC-MACAY). The students also have a popular rock-band, Diatribe. Moving Mannequins, the fashion society, prides itself in bringing in the latest fashion and also assists in grooming the students for corporate life.

The Prayaas Club plays the interesting role of coordinating the participation of IBS Hyderabad students in various external events and fests across the country. They worked relentlessly this year and brought laurels to the institute by winning several B-school competitions. Newswire focuses on the news media and plays the dual role of keeping the campus informed about important events outside, especially in the field of business and finance, as well as keeping the outside world informed of the happenings in IBS Hyderabad. Stu-z is the student-run intranet service.

It relentlessly works in ensuring that there is no wastage of food. IBS Messengers is a student body which works continuously in informing the students about all activities on campus and also helps as a smooth communication channel between academic, admin department and students.

Blood-donation camps, free dental check-ups and other such activities have been organized in the last one year. Many students are active members of the Aashayein Foundation, which works among impoverished children. Several clubs support the work of Aashayein Foundation.

Sankalp is a club that promotes social and business leadership and works towards nation building. Outreach programs to the nearby villages were conducted by Sankalp on Independence Day, Republic Day, Children's Day and also on the eve of Christmas. On Republic Day a program was conducted for HCC, a home for AIDS affected children in Hyderabad. Sankalp is also known for its flagship event, Megistanos, the Best Manager competition, which it organizes during the institution's annual inter B-school fest.

In addition to these clubs, there are two cells which are run by the students, viz, the Alumni Relations Cell, discussed in the previous section and Maçon, the entrepreneurship cell of IBS Hyderabad. Among the many activities Maçon undertakes, the most important is the Incube program, which aims at encouraging, mentoring and handholding students with basic business ideas in order to help them develop business plans which can attract funding and market support. Last year was the eighth year of the Incube program. The Centre for Entrepreneurship Development of the University and Maçon jointly celebrate a week in November or December as the entrepreneurship week on campus. This year it was celebrated during November 6-12, 2017. Many dignitaries including venture capitalists and entrepreneurs visited the campus on the initiative of CED and Maçon. While earlier Maçon was part of the National Entrepreneurship Network, now Maçon itself has emerged as a network of entrepreneurship cell with units in institutes like IBS Pune and NIT Trichy.

The Student Activities Department, with the support of all the clubs, cells and committees organizes five major events during the year. At the beginning of the academic year, the new batch of students are formally welcomed by the senior batch through a festive program christened

Lex Knot a hit among students

CITY BUREAU
Hyderabad: ICFAL Law School a constituent of Osmania University, Hyderabad, has organised four day Celebrations of Law Festival - Lex Knot from 20 March, 2017 to 2 April, 2017 at ICFAL University Campus, Domsapally.

During the festival, Bar Council of India Trust has conducted 23rd All India Inter-University National moot Court Competition in association with ICFAL Law School. The Chief Guest, Justice, E.S. Chaudhan, Chief Justice, Law Commission of India in his inaugural address began with an anecdote on the definition of law and justice. He emphasised that the terms "law" and "justice" does not find its place in the several states of our country.

Only article 13 of the Constitution provides for a exclusive definition of law. Thereby he suggested the future budding lawyers to be meticulous on the facts of the cases as well as be thorough with the subtleties and procedural laws.

He also recommended that during his study days they must concentrate on Moot Court and with the introduction of it, the student lawyers can mould their advocacy skills in a much better fashion. All they need is 'tenacity and perseverance' which will help them succeed in the court.

He discussed several important and contemporary judgments which have played a major role in shaping our legal system.

Further he highlighted that resolution has been very successful in the Supreme Court especially in matrimonial disputes for adjudication purposes. He also mentioned that delay in court proceedings have caused miscarriage of justice where few cases have been pending for over 100 years.

ICFAL Law School Dean Prof. A.V. Narasimhalou stated that more than 600 students of Law from top National Law Schools, different Universities and other reputed Law Schools spread across 34 states in India have participated in Lex Knot.

He enriched the experience of these budding competitors such as Moot Court, Client Counseling, Negotiation, Asian Parliament Debate, Judgment Writing, Poster Making Presentation, Essay Writing, Street Play and Photography were conducted.

Need for collaboration in research stressed

Private varsities are filling the gap between public varsities' capability and demand for higher education

HYDERABAD

Dr. C. Rangarajan, former RBI Governor and Chancellor of ICAI University, highlighted the importance of collaboration between private sector and public sector institutions particularly in the area of research.

Despite a steep rise in the number of varsities, gross enrolment ratio stands at 25 per cent

Dr. C. Rangarajan, ICAI, speaking during a programme at ICAI University

But, these institutions played an important role in providing quality education to the young generation of the country and should complement each other in this effort, he said while addressing senior members of the ICAI University.

While appreciating the role of private universities, he said that private universities are filling an important role in filling the gap between what public sector educational institutions can do and the demand for higher education in the country.

He lauded the development of the education infrastructure in India from 20 generations and 200 degree colleges at the time of independence to 500 universities, 40,000 colleges and 500 institutions of higher learning at present. However, the gross enrolment ratio rose only at 25 per cent, which needs further improvement, he stated.

'GST will remove tax complexities'

GST Kendras to be opened at commissionerates

STAFF REPORTER
HYDERABAD

The Chief Commissioner of Customs, Excise and Service Tax, Hyderabad, Sandeep M. Bhatnagar sought to allay the fears surrounding the Goods and Services Tax, soon to be introduced across the country, and said the new GST regime will answer many complexities in the existing system and pave way for increase in exports.

He spoke after inaugurating the two-day seminar on 'GST: A way forward' organised by ICAI Centre for Tax Policy, and said GST by its nature is regressive, because it is an indirect tax and levies the consumption by rich and poor alike. However, indirect taxes contribute to the nation building, and for the first time ever since Independence, the concept of 'One Nation One Tax' has been introduced.

The earlier system allowed States to fix the taxes as per their needs, and it resulted in competition among the States to attract investments. However, competitive environment is very low in industries, and the tax sops could not be utilised. Inefficiencies in the system have adversely affected the exports, and GST is needed to boost the exports.

Response from the industry and other sections to the draft GST Law is phenomenal, Mr. Bhatnagar said. GST will bring about administrative reforms too, as the officials will need to focus on non-fossil areas too apart from the cities. It will be business as usual for the entrepreneurs, except for the mention on the invoice, he assured. Government machinery is well prepared to welcome the new regime, and 'GST Seva Kendras' will be opened at the commissionerates for helping people, he said, and expressed confidence about smooth transition.

Former Chief Justice of the High Court of Patna, L. Narasimha Reddy delivered the keynote address, in which he termed GST as revolutionisation of indirect taxation in India.

GST has been brought in to address the huge variations in taxation by various States. There is no need to worry, as the government may change it based on public response, he averred. Citizens, however, should be ready to make their contribution to nation building, he said.

'GST on fuel: States' nod key'

Move will happen over time, with States' cooperation: CEA

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT HYDRABAD

Chief Economic Adviser Arvind Subramanian on Friday said going forward, there would be fewer GST rate slabs and petroleum products are to be brought under the Goods and Services Tax with the cooperation of the States.

"It will happen in the next few months and years... and done cooperatively," he replied to a query on when petrol and diesel would come in the ambit of GST and whether States would agree to such a move.

The Petroleum Ministry had earlier written to the GST Council asking for petrol and diesel to be brought under the GST, something that may not go down well with the State governments as the VAT they levy on the fuel is a major revenue earner. Besides, the other sig-

"What we have done [is] collapsing the 28% rate so that it will only have items of luxury consumption. Then overtime, the 12% and 18% rate [slabs] can probably be collapsed into one rate. We will see fewer rates," he said.

"As we evolve and get comfortable with revenues, I think we will be looking at further simplification... over the next few months."

To another query on the proposal to change the financial year from April-March to January-December, he said no decision had been taken yet.

On the use of cryptocurrencies, he said bitcoins were banned and the government alone had the prerogative to issue currency.

The study assesses the influence of Oil prices, Exchange rate, trade deficit, and fiscal deficit on the prices of gold in India. Using the Johansen's cointegration, variance Decomposition and Granger causality test for the period 1994 - 1995 to 2014 -2015 with monthly observations, the study found that all variables are stationary at first difference and that there are two cointegration relationships between Gold prices, crude oil prices, exchange rate, Trade Deficit and Fiscal deficit. This implies that the variables under consideration have a long relationship. The results revealed that the variation in gold prices explained by gold itself by 93.4% whereas the other variables' influence on the variation of gold prices under consideration is negligible. Gold prices and trade deficit contributes 9.43% and 7.92% respectively in the variance of crude oil prices, whereas the gold prices and trade deficit contributes 9.73% and 12.22% respectively in the variance of the prices of exchange rate. The variance in the trade deficit was explained by variance in gold price is as high as 11.31% compared all the other variables under consideration.

Our results show that there is a bidirectional causality between openness and tourism as well as between output and tourism, at various frequency bands. Hence, this study suggests a multiplier effect of tourism on the Indian economy.
3.	Vigneswara Swamy, "Reforms in Institutional Finance for Inclusive Growth in India", Institutions and Economics, Vol.10, No. 1, (Dec 2017), pp 53-86	This paper analyses the need, significance and the advantages of 'reforms in institutional finance for inclusive growth' in the context of Indian economy and offers some practical suggestions from the functional perspective. India's rural financial architecture (RFA) is subject to systemic policy issues and pervasive institutional weaknesses. Lack of autonomy and weak governance and 'unseen' accountability have affected the sustainability of rural financial institutions (RFI) and resulted in constrained outreach. The importance of access to institutional finance for the poor arises from the problem of financial exclusion of nearly 3 billion people from the formal financial services across the world. With only 34% of the population engaged in formal banking, this paper finds that the reforms in institutional finance coupled with governance reforms in India's RFA would greatly benefit the economy in making available the much-needed financial services to the poor and the neglected sections of the society, and facilitate efforts towards achieving inclusive growth.
4.	Vigneswara Swamy and Vijaykumar N, "What drives the capital flows into BRICS economies?", The World Economy, Vol. 41, No. 2, (Dec 2017), pp 519-549	Understanding what drives the capital flows has important policy implications for countries in managing the direction and magnitude of such flows. This paper empirically investigates the main drivers of capital flows into the fast-growing BRICS countries, in the backdrop of their growing inward capital flows. Employing a fully balanced panel for the period 1995–2015, we focus on, among others, the hitherto commonly untested variables: sovereign credit ratings, economic freedom and ease of doing business ranking of these countries. In searching for the relevant interaction and causality among the drivers of capital flows, we employ the panel Granger causality test to arrive at the policy implications. The results suggest that market size is a significant driver of capital flows. In addition to infrastructure, economic freedom in the host countries, ease of doing business ranking and sovereign credit ratings are the main drivers in the long-run growth of capital flows.
5.	Vigneswara Swamy and Dharani M, "An Alternate approach in exploring the causal link between financial development and economic growth - Evidence from advanced economies", International Journal of Finance & Economics, Vol.23, No.1, (Jan 2018), pp 519-549	This study explores the causal link between financial development and economic growth in advanced economies as these countries experience significantly higher levels of financial development. Using a fully balanced panel of 24 economies from 1983 to 2013, the study shows that when imposing a linear relationship, the financial development and economic growth are negatively associated in the long run. The panel granger causality tests establish the bidirectional causality between the financial development variables with growth. Employing an alternate approach of moderated mediation effect framework, we notice that the association of financial development with economic growth is moderated by the negative impacts of inflation, interest rate, and population dependency; and the positive mediation effect of trade openness. The policy implication is that there is a need to rein in inflation and real interest rates and enhance trade openness to optimize the benefits of growing financial development on economic growth.

Day-ahead spot electricity market of Indian energy exchange operates all 24 hours, 365 days a year. Many studies in literature have explored modeling spot electricity prices particularly in the context of NordPool, CalPx and PJM markets but very few studies in literature have explored modeling spot electricity prices in Indian context. Is Indian Spot Electricity Price Series Stationary? Answering this fundamental question paves way for application of techniques inspired from time series econometric modeling and forecasting literature which makes an inherent assumption that the underlying price-series is stationary. In this study we empirically investigate whether Spot Electricity Price Series is Stationary by using 17,520 hourly spot prices for each of the five regions of Indian electricity market and applying Augmented DF Test, PP Test, KPSS Test and Narayan and Popp Test for structural breaks.

Renewable energy in the form of small hydro, biomass, solar, urban waste, industrial waste and wind together accounts for 14.8% of the total installed power generation capacity in India (as on Dec 2016). Deregulation, liberalization and opening up of Indian electricity market post enactment of Indian Electricity Act 2003 has ensured complete participation by private producers. Today 99% of total installed generation capacity using Renewable energy (other than Hydro) is by private producers. In this study we review the role played by Renewable Energy in Indian Power sector, REC trading and the role played by power/energy exchanges in Indian electricity market with the objective of aiding policymakers to bring forth further measures to stimulate future growth of Renewable energy in India for decades to come.

The paper shows evidence for both supply-side and demand-side factors contributing to liquidity commonality. However, the results are more supportive towards supply-side rationale for liquidity commonality among the firms where regulators and banks play an important source of commonality in liquidity, especially during market turmoil. Results are partially driven by the fact that the Indian stock exchange is an order-driven market. These findings endorse the effect of high firm value, market return, liquidity, volatility, turnover, and alternate proxies of commonality in liquidity estimation.

This paper investigates the spot electricity price discovery that exists among the five regions of Indian electricity market using hourly spot electricity price data from 1st January 2014 to 31st December 2015. Our results showed short-run and long-run panel Granger causality between peak price and off-peak price. The results of the study suggests that though India as a nation has all the regions inter-connected with single frequency of Power grid operation since 2008, however, these markets are not highly integrated in comparison to electricity markets of developed nations around the world

Nine sectors are found to provide diversification opportunities during a bull market (i.e. 90th quantile of the return distribution) and three sectors during a bear market (10th quantile) to hedge oil price risk. Further, the contagion effect and interdependency between oil price and sectoral equity are assessed through frequency domain causality. The causality from oil price in the long run determined that there is interdependence between three sectors and oil price changes. The direction of causality from oil price is mixed in both the short run (high frequency) and long run (low frequency) for nine sectors. Overall, the carbon sector is the only sector that is immune to oil price risk, thereby providing investment and hedging opportunities for portfolio managers.

Since markets are integrated in three to six month periods, any trading decision or policy measure should consider how other gold markets behave. In the short periods, market specific or idiosyncratic factors are important. As expected, COMEX and LBMA are the world's leading gold markets at different time-scales

Despite the lack of preparation for retirement, a burgeoning population indicates a huge mass of retirees in the coming decades. To highlight the significance of retirement planning and create awareness among the masses. Extant literature suggests advertising to be one such measure of effective communication. However, it has yet to be demonstrated whether trust levels are based, in part, on a manager's time perspective. In this study a between-subjects scenario-based experimental approach was employed, which involved administration of six different scenarios. This research contributes to the development of theory by shedding light on the way interpersonal perceptions shape employee attitudes. From an applied perspective, the findings suggest interpersonal perceptions influence workers' attitudes toward their manager and their job.

Though attention has been devoted to studying the relationship between organizational virtuousness and performance, there is limited research that explores the relationship between employees' perception of organizational virtuousness and work engagement. A cross-sectional survey was carried out on a sample of knowledge workers from diverse Indian industries. The findings of the study showed that the employees' perception of organizational virtuousness predicts work engagement not only directly but also indirectly through happiness. Managers can nurture organizational virtuousness in organizations to enhance employee happiness and promote a more engaged workforce. Considering the findings of the study, Human Resource Development (HRD) professionals should make the best use of their human capital by fostering positive psychological states such as work engagement.

Structural Equation Modeling (SEM) was used to evaluate the strength of relationships among constructs.

Explored psychometrically. Later, mean factor scores of obtained service value dimensions across relationship stages (early, intermediate, and advanced) were calculated and fed into PERMAP software to graphically depict the relationship between value dimensions and relationship stages. To validate the PERMAP solution, one-way ANOVA was run for each value dimension with independent variable as a relationship level. Results reveal that customers in the early stages of relationship value tangible value dimensions and the ones in advanced stages of relationship value intangible dimensions.

Santanu Mandal, Souvik Roy and Amar Raju G, "An empirical investigation on e-retailer agility, customer satisfaction, commitment and loyalty", Business: Theory and Practice , Vol.18, No. 1, (2017), pp 97-108	Internet has changed the way retailers do their business. They have gone electronic and are now termed as e-retailers. These e retailers face huge competition in securing their loyal customer base. In our study, we suggest that if e-retailers provide good information and system quality to their consumers and in turn show agility to resolve their issues, e-retailers may develop loyal customers. In our study, we propose a model to provide understanding of this process by studying the antecedents and consequences of e-retailers' agility. Partial least squares were used for testing the proposed relationships. The empirical findings based on 222 completed responses suggest that information quality and system quality of e-retailer website can be a factor in consumers perceiving e-retailers to be agile. Also, this results in customer loyalty.

Firms that have CLSC operation can use our framework to ensure enhanced quality product returns which in turn increase profitability. Finally, possible future extensions are discussed.

1.	Breaking the Code of Silence 'Outstanding Case Writer' award, organized by the UK-based The Case Center.	In late 2013, Nina (name changed), a Senior Correspondent at an Indian weekly news magazine Tehelka was left emotionally scarred and was undergoing significant turmoil about the situation in which she found herself. According to her, the Founder and Editor-in-Chief of Tehelka and veteran journalist, Tarun J Tejpal (Tejpal), had sexually assaulted her in the elevator of a five-star hotel on two occasions during THINK Fest 2013, an annual conference organized by the magazine in Goa. The stakes were high - in the line of fire was the founder of Tehelka, a celebrated journalist who was considered a crusader for women's rights and a champion of the underprivileged. Nina, as a journalist, had always urged women to speak out and break the silence that surrounded sexual crime, but found herself at the cross roads. She feared losing her job and a possible retribution by the powerful Tejpal. However, according to her, her feminist principles and inner conscience drove her to voice her values and she finally decided to bring the incident to light. But her dilemma was - what should she say, to whom, and when? What would be at stake for her?
2.	A Sexual Harassment Complaint and the Fallout Won the 'Dark Side Case Award' at the Academy of Management (AOM) Annual Conference held in Atlanta, Georgia, USA	In November 2013, the managing editor of Indian weekly news magazine Tehelka, Shoma Chaudhury (Shoma), was shocked when she received an e-mail from her subordinate and woman journalist, Nina, accusing Tarun Tejpal (Tarun), founder and Editor-in-Chief of Tehelka, of sexually assaulting her on two occasions during THINK Fest 2013. In the e-mail, the victim provided a detailed and graphic account of the alleged sexual assault and demanded an official written apology from Tarun, an acknowledgement of the assault to be circulated among the staff and bureau of Tehelka, and the setting up of an anti-sexual harassment cell at Tehelka to probe the matter. Though known for her feminist leanings, Shoma's handling of the situation came in for severe criticism from various quarters, with critics calling her response legally questionable, inadequate, and flawed. She was criticized for her delay in setting up an independent committee to look into the matter and for allegedly trying to cover up the issue. In fact, she faced more criticism than Tarun, the perpetrator of the assault. According to Shoma, her integrity was subsequently repeatedly questioned by people from her fraternity and by the public at large. Defending herself, she said her actions were based on solidarity and feminist principles. Eventually, Shoma resigned 10 days into the crisis. The case allows for the discussion of key questions, such as – Was Shoma made a scapegoat by the media? What was at stake for her? Were her actions justified? What could she have done differently?
3.	Birchbox Won a prize in the 37th John Molson MBA International Case Writing Competition, held by Concordia University, Canada.	The case discusses Birchbox, a New York-based beauty products subscription start-up which had executed a second round of lay-offs in June 2016 in an attempt to steer itself toward profitability. Over the years, Birchbox had sustainably grown its subscriber base to 1 million but in 2016 it found itself at a critical point where it had to slow down its growth owing to lack of funds even as copycat businesses were shadowing its subscriber base. In 2016, Birchbox's subscriber base had fallen by 7%. Competitors backed with better resources were giving it a tough time. New businesses which had popped up and operated in their own niches had gained a cult following. Meanwhile, competition had caught up and some clones offering the same kind of services as Birchbox had started eclipsing the subscriber base of the company. Add to it unhappy customers and unforgiving clones; Birchbox had to find a way out.

(OKL) was established by Katsuhisa Otsuka (Katsuhisa) in 1969 and since then it was known for its luxury and super comfortable products. The founder introduced the unique membership system which became the reason of dispute between him and his daughter Kumiko Otsuka (Kumiko), in the new millennium. But as soon as recession hit Japan, the disposable income of youth became unstable; they started looking for other cheaper and non-branded options. Their needs were catered by other small furniture retail chains which were in their growth phase like IKEA, Nitori Holdings Ltd, Muji. It led to huge losses for the company. In January 2015, the members of the board decided to reappoint the daughter as president since profits of OKL were going down. In the same meeting, Katsuhisa proposed the change of entire members of board in the next general shareholders meeting. In the meeting, both daughter and father presented their contrasting proposals to the shareholders. Kumiko prevailed but the problems for OKL were far from over

(Huawei) in the global markets of the US, Australia, and the European Union for its telecom equipment. The countries alleged that Huawei had entered their establishments through the back door at the behest of the Chinese government, giving China a chance to spy on the US. Some experts felt that Huawei should also lobby the way Americans did. However, the questions whether Huawei's efforts were adequate to address the security concerns and whether the company could successfully overcome the roadblocks it faced in its global expansion still remained. The company might have to reinvent itself if it had to negotiate these obstacles.

Starbucks is considered a success story in China as it was able to convert the traditional tea drinkers of the nation to coffee lovers through its premium offerings. The premium pricing strategy of the company aimed at improving its brand positioning in the Chinese market where the consumers' perception was that high price products offered higher quality. However, the pricing strategy attracted criticism from the media outlets in China that accused the coffee giant of "profiteering" and of discriminating against its Chinese consumers. Starbucks defended its pricing strategy in China saying that its higher prices were attributable to its higher cost of doing business in the country than in other markets. Howard Schultz, CEO of Starbucks, saw China as a primary growth market and had ambitious growth plans at a time when there was worldwide anxiety over the country's sluggish economy and market turmoil. However, with competition growing in the market, can Starbucks sustain its high prices in China?

SunEdison had had an illustrious past; it had grown to become the largest solar installation company in the US and a global renewable energy giant. By 2016, one of the most contrasting features of the solar industry was that there was little innovation and differentiation and the market was still defining its business model. The industry had gone into consolidation mode and SunEdison preferred to grow inorganically. To tap the opportunity in emerging markets and win projects, SunEdison started offering rock bottom rates. In an industry where technological innovation was rare, financial innovation became the norm. The case describes SunEdison's fall from grace. It throws light on the economics of the solar business and the need for robust sustainable finance for renewable projects.
8.	Walmart's E-Commerce Acquisition Spree: Toward Online Success Or Existential Crisis? Second prize in the 37th John Molson MBA International Case Writing Competition, held by Concordia University, Canada.	Walmart, the US-based retail giant, had been on an acquisition spree since the summer of 2016, when it bought US-based e-commerce company Jet.com (Jet) for $3.3 billion as a part of its strategy to compete with e-commerce giant Amazon.com (Amazon). This acquisition trail started as a result of the changing retail e-commerce landscape in the US, especially from 2016. Retail e-commerce sales in the US had experienced 16% year-on-year (Y-O-Y) growth compared to the total retail growth, which was 2% Y-O-Y in Q2 of 2016. The significant expansion of the e-commerce sector coupled with prospects of its sustained future growth, stirred Walmart to adapt its business model to the digital backdrop. Since then, Walmart had been acquiring several smaller e-commerce websites like Shoebuy, Moosejaw, Modcloth, and Bonobos, most of which – if not all – catered to young users. Experts believed many such acquisitions could be expected in the near future from the world's largest physical retailer as a part of its strategy to increase its online operations. "I can tell you we are happy with the moves we are making, and we are happy with the results. It's about moving fast. It's about innovating. And it's a very big market," said Marc Lore (Lore), co-founder of Jet who became the head of Wal-Mart's US online operations.

Innovation: The Recipe for Chipotle's Success Won the first prize Theme topic 'Innovation' sponsored by The Case Centre in Third International Case Study Conference 2017 (ICSC 2017)	This case discusses the innovative strategies adopted by one of the leading fast casual restaurants in US, Chipotle Mexican Grill, Inc. Chipotle adopted an innovative strategy called 'Food with Integrity' where the ingredients are sourced naturally from local farmers and meat is sourced from animals which are naturally grown in open fields. However Chipotle was in trouble and was reeling from lost sales after a food safety crisis that sickened 60 people with E. coli across 14 states in the US in 2015. The case highlights the importance of innovation to survive in the high competition of an industry and achieving customer loyalty by maintaining consistent quality of production through commitment to the company's core policy like Chipotle adhered to its core policy of 'Food with integrity' even in tough times. The challenge before Steve Ells, CEO of Chipotle is to create a fair food system, regain the trust of American customers and increase sales.
11.	The Economics behind Uber's Surge Pricing Won the IBSAF Best Case Award sponsored by IBSAF in Third International Case Study Conference 2017 (ICSC 2017)	The case is about Uber's pricing strategy under which the company increased the cost of a ride in a particular area when the demand for rides in that area went up. Uber is known for revolutionizing land transportation costs with its surge pricing, which required riders to pay more during periods of heavy demand. The company's surge pricing strategy aimed to encourage more drivers to pick up riders and to control the available supply to customers who valued the service the most. However, the surge pricing strategy had always been a critical driver of its success and also the source of much controversy. Many complained that the ride-sharing company took advantage of rush hours by compelling passengers to pay more to get their ride. Uber defended its surge pricing saying that it ensured commuters got a ride when they required it. Travis Kalanick claimed that without surge pricing, there would be lack of supply and passengers could not get a ride in time. In a bid to reduce customer complaints, Uber introduced an upfront pricing feature in its app that enabled riders to know the exact cost of a ride before booking it. But, by launching the new fare system, Uber had no intention of doing away with surge pricing as the company believed that this was the only way to ensure that people could always get a ride when they needed one. Kalanick had ambitious growth plans at a time when the company was entangled in a number of controversies including world-wide protests against surge pricing. With Kalanick's resignation, will Uber be able to find a solution to the surge pricing problem and will that help it become a profitable company?

Mantra Prasad Satpathy and Susanta Kumar Sahoo, "Experimental and numerical studies on ultrasonic welding of dissimilar metals", International Journal of Advanced Manufacturing Technology, (Jul 2017), online	Ultrasonic metal welding (USMW) is gaining popularity for joining thin and dissimilar metal sheets and foils. In the present study, a new type of booster and horn is proposed and modeled with adequate precision. The modal analysis module of finite element method (FEM) is used to analyze the effects of different step lengths and fillet radius on its natural frequency. The dynamic analysis has also been performed to find out the stress distribution in both parts under cyclic loading conditions The experiments are conducted on the 0.3Al-0.3Cu specimens with the designed parts to study the effects of various controllable process parameters. This paper provides an insight not only to produce high-quality welds but also to solve many industrial issues by explaining the comprehensive background theories on fatigue and vibro-thermographic analyses of the booster and horn along with detailed microscopic analyses of fractured surface.

In coordination with multiple devices, long range data transmission is achieved. The advantage of multiple network utilization has brought out the significance of higher service applications for any network device with the advantage of using multiple networks for communication. In this network, the demand for proper resource utilization arises due to a shift to multiple networks. As the network switches from one network to another, and observed issues like fairness, power, spectrum utilization in the resources are varied, which impacts the flow of data. Hence it is required to optimize the resource utilization to achieve a fair and efficient communication. Towards achieving the objective of fairness in an heterogeneous network with cognitive devices, a multi objective coordination approach for optimal resource utilization is proposed. The resource utilization problem is defined by an effective spectrum utilization among the network users. The simulation results show a significant improvement in resource utilization compared to conventional approaches.

The removal of the template resulted in the formation of mesoporous composites doped with Ce and Ti, which were thoroughly characterized via small-angle X-ray scattering (SAXS), wide-angle X-ray diffraction (WAXRD), N ₂ adsorption, scanning and transmission electron microscopy analysis with energy-dispersive spectrometry mapping (SEM-TEM-EDS), inductively coupled plasma atomic emission spectrophotometry (ICP-AES), and ultraviolet-visible diffuse reflectance spectrometry (UV-visible). The electronic states of Ti and Ce species present on the surface of silica were also investigated by X-ray photoelectron spectroscopy (XPS). The catalytic activity of these Ti-modified ceria-silica samples for the photodecomposition of rhodamine B under visible-light irradiation was investigated. The results revealed that a sample with a higher Ti content, as well as equal amounts of Ce and Ti, displayed higher catalytic activity for the photodegradation of the organic dye rhodamine B.

Mahendra Shinde, "Spatially periodic modulated thermal convection in granular fluids: A simulation study", Powder Technology, Vol. 323, (Jan 2018), pp 120-127	Rayleigh-Bénard convection in normal fluids shows interesting variation when a boundary is temperature modulated. As granular fluids show quite good resemblance to normal fluids, it is expected that they exhibit similar variation in convective dynamics under such a condition. A study of convection in granular fluids by injecting spatially non-uniform energy through a boundary is done in this paper. Emphasis is made on the dependence of onset and strength of granular convection on the relevant dimensionless parameters characterizing the convective state. The non-uniform energy injection is modelled by spatially periodic modulation of the lower boundary. It is seen that the amplitude and the wavelength of the periodic modulation are two new important parameters characterizing the dynamics.

1.	Madhuri Irene, "Whistle Bowler a Sweet Friend or a Sour Enemy", Amity Law Journal, Vol.2, No.2, (Dec 2017), pp.22-28.	Corruption, which today has become a plague ruining the economical and ethical environment at the industrial level in India, often goes unchallenged when people are frightened to raise voice about it. Initiations to a committed Whistle-blower Policy will provide an invaluable insight into corruption. From exposing high profile scandals to financial scam, whistle-blowers play a critical role in saving both resources and lives. Timely disclosure of wrongdoing can also help to protect human rights. There are laws that protect whistle-blowers from being fired or mistreated for reporting misconduct. One of these laws is the Whistle-blower Protection Act. This lesson explains the whistle-blower Protection Act and other laws that protect whistle-blowers. Discussions of whistleblowing whether in academic literature or in more popular media have tended to very one-sided assessments of the moral worth of the act? Indeed, much of the current literature concentrates on psychological or managerial aspects of whistleblowing while eschewing any normative commitment on the question.
2.	Md. Akbar Khan, "Cyber Crimes and Cyber Torts: A Comparative and Analytical Perspective", Aligarh Law Journal, Vol. 24, (2016-2017), pp.93-113	Cybercrimes have been rampant and their wanton growth is being unheeded in the wake of weak laws and unspecified jurisdiction and they continue to grow in number with passing of time and technology. There has also been a sudden spurt and preponderance of cyber torts which are becoming as imperative and relevant as that of cybercrimes. They are finding their way in courts more often. In order to understand we have to compare and analyse the same. There is a marked difference between the two. The new dimensions of this new medium pave way for possible violations like cyber porn or cyber obscenity torts, misrepresentation on internet, passing off, copyright violations and cyber defamation increase the significance of the law of torts. Electronic transfer of money from accounts by cyber cheating, developing a computer program virus to crash valuable data of corporations or individuals are some of the new crimes that are required to be defined and make wrong doers accountable for the payment of damages by reinforcing the law through incorporation of necessary provisions to strengthen it in tune with the changing technological scenario.
