About the Conference

Environment is the basic component of life on the earth which makes it worth living. It transcends all barriers of human chains into every form of life irrespective of its origin and extent. It becomes the responsibility of all human beings living in the present era to respect, protect and preserve the ecology from destruction and depriving the future races from getting the benefit of environment.

The Conference on Environmental Law and Management- Public Health concentrates on four major themes Environment and human health and interface, Climate Change, SDG and human health, Environment Sound Management system and Environmental Audit, and Biodiversity, Ecology, Ecosystem and health. International Conventions treaties like Stockholm declarations, Kyoto protocol, Doha Declarations etc. provide for the sustainable development, climate change regulations by reducing the GHG emissions.

Environmental audits are a type of evaluation which is intended to identify environmental compliance and management system implementation gaps, along with related corrective actions and the environment sound management as per the Basal Convention looks into taking the practical steps to ensure the management of hazardous waste to protect the human health and environment against the adverse effects of the waste.

Ecosystems are the interactions between the plants, animals and micro-organisms and their environment and biodiversity is the variation of life form within the ecosystems. Ecosystem and biodiversity go hand in glove and have a greater impact on the human health as well.

These issues are of great importance for understanding and taking steps against such adverse impact they have on the human health.
